Atzerodt, David E. Herold? Those are the mly persons, so far as his own testimony or the testimony of any other witness discloses, with whom he had any communication whatever on any subject immediately or remotely touching this conspiracy before the assassination. His receipt and concealment of the arms are, unexplained, evidence that he was in the

The explanation is that he was dependent upon Mary E Surratt: was her tenant; and his declaration, given in evidence by the s cused herself, is that "she had ruined him, and brought this trouble upon him." But because be was weak enough, or wicked enough, to become the guilty depository of these arms, and to deliver them on the order of Mary E Surratt to the assassins, it does not follow that he is not to be believed on oath. It is said that he concealed the facts that the arms had been left and called for. He so testifies himself, but be gives the reason that he did it only from apprehension of danger to his life. If he were in the conspiracy, his general credit being un-challenged, his testimony being uncontradicted in any material matter, he is to be believed, and cannot be disbelieved if his testimony is substantially corroborated by other reliable

Judge Bingham named the various points in which the testimony of Lloyd was corroborated by other witnesses But there is one other fact in this case that puts forever at rest the question of the guilty participation of the prisoner, Mrs. Surratt, in this conspiracy and murder, and that is that Payne, who had lodged four days in her house, who, during all that time, had sat at her table, and who had often conversed with her: when the guilt of his great crime was upon him, and he knew not where else he could so safely go to find a co-conspirator, and he could trust none that was not like bimself, guilty, with even the knowledge of his presence; under cover of darkness, after wandering for three days and nights, skulking before the pursuing officers of justice, at the hour of midnight, found his way to the door of Mrs Surratt, and on being confronted with her in the brilliantly lighted hall she raises her right hand and exclaims, " Before God, sir, I have got seen that man before; I have not bired him; I do not know anything about him.

If not one word had been said, the mere act of Payne in flying to her house for shelter would have borne witness against her, strong as proofs from Holy Writ. But when she demies, after hearing his declarations, that she had sent for him, or that she had gone to him and hired him, and calls her God to witness that she had never seen him, and knew nothing of him, when, in point of fact, she had seen him for four successive days in her own house, in the same clothing which he then wore, who can'resist for a moment the conclusion that these parties were alike guilty

The testimony of Spangler's complicity is conclusive and brief. Judge Bingham went over the evidence in the case of Spangler; and then proceeded to say that it was not needful to take time in the recapitulation of the evidence, which shows conclusively that David E. Herold was one of these conspirators. His continued association with Booth, with Atzerodt, his visits to Mrs. Surratt's his attendance at the theatre with Payne, Surratt, and Atzerodt, his connection with Atzerodt on the evening of the murder, riding with him on the street in the direction of and near to the theatre at the hour appointed for the work of assassinrtion, and his final flight and arrest, show that he, in common with all the other parties on trial, and all the parties named upon your record not upon trial, had combined and confederated to kill and murder in the interests of the rebellion, as charged and specified against them. Judge Bingham entering upon the question was there co-operation between the several accused in the execution of this conspiracy, proceeded to make a masterly grouping of the evidence in the whole case, showing in clear and graphic terms the parts taken by the different conspirators respectively, and affording a sus-tained narrative of the workings of the conspiracy as a whole. In this connection he dwelt at considerable length upon the evidence criminating Mudd in connection with harboring and concealing Booth; his discrepancies of statement in regard to knowing that it was assassination on Saturday, and as to the hour at which Booth left his house, &c., &c.

All these circumstances leave no further room for argument, and no rational goubt that Dr. Samuel A. Mudd was as certainly in this conspiracy as were Booth and Herold, whom he sheltered and entertained; receiving them under cover of darkness on the morning after the assassination, concealing them throughout that day from the hand of offended justice. and aiding them, by every endeavor, to pursue their way successfully to their co-conspirator, Arnold, at Fortress Monroe, and in which direction he fled until overtaken and slain.

The bill of exchange found upon the person of Booth affords additional evidence of the fact that he had undertaken, in aid of the rebellion, this work of assassination by the hands of himself and his confederates, for such sum as the accredited agents of Jefferson Davis might pay him or them, out of the funds of the confed. eracy, which, as is in evidence, they had in "any amount" in Canada, for the purpose of rewarding conspirators, spies, poisoners, and assassins, who might take service under their false commissions, and do the work of the incendiary and the murderer upon the lawful representation had been intrusted the care of the Republic, the maintenance of the Constitution, and the execution of the laws.

By all the testimony in the case it is made as clear as any transaction can be shown by human testimony, that the several accused did perform the several parts alleged against them in the charges and specifications.

If this treasonable conspiracy has not been wholly executed; if the several executive officers of the United States and the commander of its armies, to kill and murder whom the said several accused thus contederated and conspired, have not each and all fallen by the of these conspirators, thereby leaving the United States without a President or Vice President; without a Secretary of State, whe alone is clothed with authority by the law to call an election to fill the vacaucy, should any arise, in the offices of President and Vice-Presiden; and without a lawful commander of the armies of the republic, it is only because the conspirators were deterred by the vigilance and fidelity of the executive officers. whose lives were mercifully protected on that night of murder by the care of the Infinite Being, who has thus far saved the republic and crowned its arms with victory.

If this conspiracy was thus entered into by the accused, if John Wilkes Booth did kill and murder Abraham Lincoln in pursuance thereof, if Lewis Payne did, in pursuance of said conspiracy; assault with intent to kill and murder William H. Seward, as stated, and if the several parties accused did commit the several acts alleged against them in the prosecution of said conspiracy, then, it is the law that all the parties to that conspiracy, whether present at the time of its execution or not, whether on trial before this court or not, are alike guilty of the several acts done by each in the execution of the common design. What these conspirators did in the execution of this conspiracy by the hand of one of their co-conspirators they did themselves; his act, done in the prosecution of the common design, was the act of all the parties to the treasonable combimation, because done in execution and furtherance of their guilty and treasonable agreement As we have seen, this is the rule, whether all the conspirators are indicted or not; whether they are all on trial or not. "It is not maprovided the offence involve a conspiracy. Upon indictment for murder, for instance, if it appear that others, together with the prisoner, conspired to perpetrate the crime, the act of one done in pursuance of that intention would be evidence against the rest "(1 Whar. 706.) To the same effect are the words of Chief Justice Marshall, before cited, that whoever leagued in a general conspiracy, performed any part, however minute, or however remote, from the scene of action, are guilty as principals. In this treasonable conspiracy, to aid the existing armed rebellion, by murdering the executive officers of the United States and the commander of its armies, all the parties to it must be held as principals, and the act of one in the prosecution of the common design the act

He would leave the decision of this dread issu? With the court, to which alone it belongs. He was not conscious that in this argument he had made by erroneous statemer evidence, or draw any erroneous statement of the evidence, or draw any erroneous conclusions; yet he prayed the Cart, out of tender regard and jealous care for the rights of the accused, to see that no error of his dany there be, shall work them harm. The part services of the members of this honorable barries of the rance that, without fear, tavor, or affection, joined upon them by their oaths. Whatever else I are the fall he trusted in God the parever else may befall, he trusted in God that this, the whole people will be respected, and that the Republic in this, its supreme bour of trial. will be true to itself and just to all-ready to protect the rights of the humblest, to redress every wrong, to avenge every crime, to vindicate the majesty of law, and to maintain inviolate that justice to establish which the Constitution was ordained -whether assailed by hoses armed with gold or armed with steel. After the delivery of Assistant Judge Bing-ham's argument, Mr. Ewing, as counsel for Mudd, Spangler and Arnold, asked leave to read to the Coart a paper setting forth that, in misstated the evidence in a number of matters of great importance in the consideration of the cases of the accused, and asking the Court to test the accuracy of the statement of facts and alluded by reference to the record; whereupon the Court was cleared to consider whether the paper should be read.

The Court adjourned until eleven o'clock today, in order to deliberate in secret session.

THE CONSPIRACY TRIAL

The able and comprenensive argument of Judge Bingham, (a very full abstract of which we give) before the Military Commission, will be fellowed with general interest.

It deals courteously, yet trenchantly with the ingenious and laboriously advocated line of defence set up for the prisoners respectively by their counsel, Messrs. Johnson, Aiken, Clampitt, Cox. Doster, and Ewing, and to most minds will be deemed conclusive on all the main points argued. This case, which must rank in all coming times among the cases celebre of the world may now be considered closed, so far as the public is concerned, until the announcement of the findings, which it is understood will be made at the earliest practicable moment.

BURIAL OF OUR BRAVE DEAD. Capt. J. M. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC-PAREWELL ORDER OF GEN. MEADE. Headquarters Army of the Potomac, June 28, 1865.

The following eloquent farewell order to his soldiers has been issued by Gen. Meade: Soldiers: This day two years I assumed command of you, under the orders of the President of the United States. To-day, by virtue of the same authority, this Army ceasing to exist, I have to announce my transfer to other duties, and my separation frem you. It is unnecessary to enumerate here all that has occurred in these two eventful years, from the grand and decisive battle of Gettysburg, the turning point of the war, to the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia at Appomattox Court House. Suffice it to say that history will do you justice, a grateful country will honor the living, cherish and support the disabled, and sincerely mourn the dead. In parting from you, your Commanding General will ever bear in memory your noble devotion to your country, your patience and cheerfulness under all the privations and sacrifices you have been called on to endure. Soldiers! having accomplished the work se before us, having vindicated the honor and integrity of our Government and flag, let us return thanks to Almighty God for his blessing in granting us victory and peace, and let us earnestly pray for strength and light to discharge our duties as citizens, as we have endeavored to discharge them as soldiers! GEO. G. MEADE, Major General, U. S. A.

PREFERENCE TO BE GIVEN TO THE BRAVI The Secretary of the Navy has issued a circutar to the commandants of the navy yards and stations, that in the employment of hands preference shall be given to persons who served in the army or navy and have been honorably discharged, and that such persons as relinquished their places to enter the military or naval service will be permitted to resame their positions, if they wish.

The commandants are directed to have statements made of the number of men in each department who have been in the service, with the length of time, and they are directed to have lists of persons who have been in the service, applying for work, and when additional hands are to be employed, they are to be taken from those on this list, whenever prac-

OATHS OF ALLEGIANCE. In obedience to recent instructions from Secretary Seward, Colonel Ingraham has turned over to the State Department over ten thousand oaths of allegiance subscribed to in this city by disloyal parties, during the administration of three different provost marshals. It has been the custom to keep these oaths on file in the Provost Marshal's office, but as some of the parties who are now making application for pardon have violated their oaths, it is ned necessary to place them in the hands of the Secretary of State.

PARDONED.

J. B. McFerren, D. D., the well known book agent of the M. E. Church South, and one if not the most prominent of the Methodist Epis. copal preachers in the Southwest, was yesterday granted a full pardon and amnesty. Dr. McFerrin is well known in Washington, and was, before the war, a candidate for a bish.

THE STATE PRISONERS AT FORTERS MON-ROE .- The Fortress Monroe correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer writes that C. C Clay has been taken sick; his imprisonment evidently telling on his health. Dr Bancroft attends him. The doctor is doing al .e can to restore the prisoner's healtn. He is suffering from no particular disease, but is laboring under general physical prostration or debility. Jeff Davis is actually becoming robust; he is heavier now than on the day of his capture

He is ever ready to talk, though no answer is vouchsafed him. He has presented Dr. Cra ven with his elegant meerschaum. Albeit Jeff. has donated his pipe, he has not given up smoking by any means. He stipulated with Dr. Craven, when he presented him the amberstemmed meerschaum, to give him a long-stemmed pipe in return. This the Doctor did and Jefferson now puffs the weed from an ordinary briar root. John Mitchell is gloomy and morose. H

Last night, about 11 o'clock, the neighborhood was again disturbed by the quarrels of the Doctor and his wife. Quiet being restored, they were not arrested. This morning, about 7 o'clock, Sergeant Tait, of the Second Ward police, passing the house, saw a crowd of persons standing around, who told him the Doctor and his wife had been fighting all the morning. The Doctor hoisted the window and called the Sergeant, who went in and saw the chamber furniture seattered around as if there had been an extensive muss. The Doctor and his wife got to quarrelling in the presence of the Sergeant, and the Sergeant undertook to carry both to the station. The Doctor yelled as if he was about to be murdered, and his wife laid down on the floor. The Sergeant finding it difficut to carry man and wife, dropped the latter, and carried the Doctor before Justice Drury, who fined the Doctor $5 for disorderly conduct, and gave him some excellent advice relative to his future conduct.
